Winthrop honors coeducation

Winthrop President Phil Lader awards Lois Rhame West with the Honorary Degree of Doctor of Humane Letters.

By LISA BUIE
TJ assistant news editor

Winthrop's first convocation of 1984-85, held last Wednesday in Byrnes Auditorium, commemorated the college's tenth anniversary of coeducation.

Special guests included: former South Carolina Governor and Ambassador to Saudi Arabia John West and wife Lois Rhame West, U.S. Senator and Mrs. Ernest F.

Hollings and Mr. and Mrs. James Pinckney Kinard Jr., son of former Winthrop President James Pinckney Kinard and former faculty member Lee Wicker Kinard.

West, who signed the controversial bill which opened Winthrop's doors to all qualified applicants, was presented with the first Winthrop Medallion in the college's 99 year history by President Philip Lader.

After accepting the award, West reflected on Winthrop and the struggle for coeducation which began in the 1950's.

"Winthrop was a great part of South Carolina life. It survived the Great Depression and the Industrial Revolution during World War II. However, enrollments sharply declined, and a group of legislators which included Senator Hollings realized that we couldn't afford not to make maximum use of Winthrop.

However, the change was traumatic for people who knew the college as an all girl's school and it was a long hard fight," said West.

In addition, West proclaimed the college reached "a new era of growth" as a result of coeducation and praised Lader and his wife Linda as "outstanding role models."

Following a medley of popular music, news, and fads of 1974 by Assistant Professor of Drama Blair Beasley, Mrs. Lois Rhame West, alumna of 1943 and the first married student to be allowed to remain in college, was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters by Lader for her outstanding contributions to her alma mater and state, and for her role in contributing to peace in the Middle East.

Also honored with awards were Associate Professor of Psychology Dr. Roger Baumgarte, recipient of the James Pinckney Kinard and Lee Wicker Kinard Prize for Excellence in Teaching; Physical Plant Director Bill Culp and Public Information Director Jane Morris received Employee of the Year Awards.

Professors who received Distinguished Service Awards in the spring semester of 1984 were also recognized.

College increases fees

By JEFFREY WOODALL
TJ staff writer

Inflation has caused tuition increases at Winthrop College, according to J.P. McKee, Budget Director for the Office of Finance and Business.

Fee increases were recommended by the Administration and passed by the Board of Trustees.

This year, Winthrop College received an additional 1.3 million dollars from the state legislature. "Had the school not received this, the fees would have gone up $400 instead of the $100 that it did," said McKee.

The $100 will be broken down to $50 more for residence halls, $20 more for meal plans and $30 more class fees. "The residence hall increases will be used for much needed repairs and improvements," stated

McKee. Meal plan costs were increased in order to keep up with rising wholesale food costs.

The student fee increase will bring in approximately $500,000 in additional revenue, but most of it will go to meal plans and residence halls which are not funded by the state.

At present the school operates on a $30 million budget. "This includes everything: financial aid, scholarships, federal contracts, and grants," said McKee.

"It looks like we will continue to get full formula funding and keep fee increases to a minimum, and we will continue to hold fees to a minimum depending on what the state legislature does. We can't promise not to increase fees in the future but we can keep them in line with other institutions," added McKee.

Winthrop Grows — Crowded campus creates problem

By KIP WORRELL
TJ staff writer

Because of increased enrollment, 104 Winthrop students are temporarily without living space on campus.

"One hundred and two male students and two female students are on the housing waiting list for residence hall space. Fifty-nine students are being temporarily housed in emergency spaces on campus," said Cindy Cassens, Dean of Housing.

With enrollment up from 4099 to 5091 students, Winthrop residence hall space is beginning to fill up, according to the office of Institutional Research.

Fifty-nine students are being temporarily placed in all available spaces on campus. "Students are being housed in the T.V. rooms in Bancroft Annex, study rooms in Richardson and storage areas in Breazeale and Roddey apartments," said Cassens. All students on the waiting list who have not been placed are providing their own room and board.

"We have made appeals to the Rock Hill community to list more off-campus housing options. Also, area realtors have helped us a great deal with finding off-campus housing," said Cassens. The Red Coach Inn has offered to help by making thirty to thirty-five temporary spaces available to Winthrop students.

"All students on the waiting list to be placed in residence halls have paid their one hundred dollar prepayment," said Cassens.

"A study has begun to remedy the problem. We are trying to get students in temporary spaces to permanent living spaces. We need to determine if there has been a population shift on campus."

McLaurin Hall is being renovated and should be ready for residence space in the fall of 1985.

"I don't anticipate any construction of residence halls in the near future, rather renovations of existing spaces. We are concerned with trying to find places for students as soon as possible to solve the problem," said Cassens.

Neilson resigns

Tuttle accepts position

By TOM STEARNS
TJ staff writer

Winthrop College President Phil Lader announced Wednesday, Aug. 29, the resignation of Dr. Charlie Neilson, Vice-President for Finance and Business. Dr. Neilson resigned last Tuesday to become president of an international surgical supply company. Dr. Harold P. Tuttle, currently Vice-President for International Planning and Programs, will become Neilson's successor.

"Charlie Neilson brought a seasoned international businessman's perspective to the college, and we look to Skip Tuttle assuming responsibilities not generally exercised during the interim year between presidents," said Lader.

Dr. Neilson will continue to live in Rock Hill while commuting to his new company's various offices around the U.S. His decision came after several months of negotiation with investors in the new company.

Tuttle was Assistant Dean at Georgia State University in charge of Finances before coming in 1980 to Winthrop, where he was appointed Vice-President. "I am looking forward to the transition, and as I handle some of the responsibilities during the interim period, I foresee no difficulty in the change," said Tuttle.

A national search will be conducted for a new Vice-President. College Budget Officer J.P. McKee will assume expanded responsibilities to assist Tuttle.

SAC promotes Winthrop

By KIM ATKINS
TJ staff writer

The new Student Alumnae Council, SAC, a twenty-student group, will participate in alumni and college functions and serve as a presidential task force.

Members, selected by SAC Adviser Sharon Greene, were chosen for their leadership and academic abilities. "It's an honor to be selected," said Greene, "because members must show great qualities of scholarship and leadership."

The Council will be learning the benefits and activities of the Winthrop Alumni Association. The members of SAC will discover ways to support the college after graduation and will develop programs to assist student transition to alumni status.

As members of the presidential task force, they will represent the college at various functions. Each member must also be ready to learn "a little bit about everything on campus," Sharon stated. Other purposes of the Council are to help students to become better alumni and to become well-rounded students.

Members of the SAC have already recruited volunteers for the phonathon and have been active in Alumni Weekend planning. Officers meet twice a month to coordinate SAC activities. Representatives from different areas of the college attend the meetings to acquaint members with different topics and to keep members updated on educational issues and campus happenings.

Future members must apply, be interviewed, maintain a 2.0 grade average and have letters of recommendation from two faculty members.

President Phil Lader and Senator Ernest Hollings look on as Professor Roger Baumgarte receives the James Pinckney Kinard and Lee Wicker Kinard Prize for Excellence In Teaching.

DSU sponsors Fall Bash

By LISA BUIE

The annual Winthrop College Fall Bash will be held Saturday from 2 to 6 p.m. at the lake area. The cost will be $2 for students with Winthrop I.D.'s and $4 for guests. Only one guest per I.D. will be allowed.

Beer and wine will be served, but, due to changes in state laws, the drinking age will be enforced.

"In addition to the college I.D., another picture I.D. will be required, such as a driver's license," said Tom Webb, Director of Dinkins Student Union.

"In order to continue the program, we will identify those of age to drink and those under age by using wrist tickets, which are bands similar to hospital bracelets and can not be reattached once they are removed," added Webb.

The bands will also serve a dual purpose in that they will help spot persons entering the event illegally.

Musical entertainment will be provided by "Different Methods," a band specializing in top 40 with an emphasis on songs by groups like The Pretenders and Eurhythmics, according to Lane Bembeneker, Special Events chairman of Dinkins Student Union.

Other highlights will include an air show featuring a hot air balloon, parachutists and ultralights.

"There will also be a ping-pong drop and 50 of the 500 balls dropped will be specially marked for gifts and prizes such as umbrellas, T-shirts and other items," said Webb.

Shuttle buses will pick students up at Byrnes and at the Student Center at 30-minute intervals, beginning at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Fall Bash T-shirts will go on sale for $4 beginning tomorrow on the main floor of Dinkins Student Center and will also be available at Fall Bash.

"The shuttle buses are a way for people who don't have transportation to get to the event. Also, we encourage persons whose driving abilities may become impaired to take the buses," said Webb.

Board discusses improvement

By BETH INGRAM
TJ news editor

The Winthrop College Board of Trustees met Wednesday to discuss the budget and campus improvement plans.

Fund increases included graduate student scholarships and library acquisitions by $35,000. Additional funds were given for evening security in residence halls.

Career development is being emphasized at Winthrop. Tucker I. Johnson was named recently as Director of Career Development.

Alumni participation increased from 10 percent this past year. A record of $450,000 in private support, was received by the college (which established 12 new scholarships.)

Enrollment this semester included an increase in minority students. Other results included a 7 percent increase in the freshman class, a 21 percent increase in black enrollment, and a 40 percent increase in black applicants.

The tightening of admissions requirements has improved the quality of students admitted to Winthrop. Improvements were a result of an increased follow-up from Winthrop to prospective students as well as the visibility of President Lader as he spoke to groups statewide.

Other reasons included increased scholarship support, and a new college logo displayed on billboards throughout the state.

A new athletic program entitled "Total Living Concept" will be designed to provide athletes assistance in development in areas other than athletics. The new Sports Information Director is Sam Copeland.

Changes for 1985 improvements were also presented at the Board of Trustees meeting Wednesday morning.

Scholarship support will increase and the admissions office will focus on out-of-state recruitment.

About 30,000 alumnae referral cards will be sent to alumnae.

Additional funds will be given to student groups.

The theme of the admissions campaign will be "Winthrop needs someone just like you."

Fiscal improvement projects for the next five years were discussed at the meeting. A proposal was presented to move the School of Consumer Science to Rutledge, to move the School of Business to Thurmond, and to move the College of Arts and Sciences to Kinard.

Students encounter change

Students entering Winthrop College this fall face a stricter general education policy, cultural events requirements, and final exams. In addition, all freshmen must attend seven convocations.

Last fall the faculty adopted a more rigorous general education policy. Requirements include: 15 hours of basic skills, nine hours of natural sciences, nine hours of behavior and social sciences, nine hours of arts and humanities, six hours of international studies, and 14 hours of electives.

Students must take two semesters of writing; a math course, a history course and an English course, as well as several courses from other areas. The new math requirement prevents students from graduating without completing a math course. In the past students could avoid the dreaded math courses by taking foreign language and computer science courses.

The new general education policy will improve the validity of a Winthrop degree by producing a more functional graduate. Winthrop's academic reputation will grow statewide and nationwide.

Transfer students and freshmen entering this fall must attend three cultural events for every 15 hours of course work taken. The Cultural Events Committee, composed of faculty members, will meet monthly to add events to the calendar which will count toward this requirement.

As a result of this cultural requirement, Winthrop will produce a well-rounded graduate. Perhaps this participation will increase school spirit and involvement in other campus activities.

The cultural event attendance requirement seems reasonable; however, the convocation attendance policy requiring freshmen to attend seven convocations is debatable. This requirement was not approved by the faculty and is not a graduation requirement.

The administration tacked this requirement on to the new catalog. Attendance at the convocations does not count toward the cultural events requirement.

Winthrop could save time and money by combining these two requirements. Convocations could be considered cultural events and provide more choices for students. The key to building student participation is to provide fun, interesting, educational programs and let students know what is available to them.

This year all students face final exams. In the 15th week of the semester, from Monday through Saturday, exams will be given during four periods each day at a minimum of two and a half hours. The testing schedule is 8 a.m., 11:30 a.m., 3 p.m., and 6:30 p.m. No exams will be given on Friday and Saturday evenings.

This reinstatement of exams will produce more work for teachers and students. However, the exams will help test the amount of knowledge retained at the end of a course. Exam coverage is determined by each individual teacher.

Stricter general education requirements, cultural events attendance, and final exams will produce a functional, well-rounded student.

State law denies drinking privilege

By LISA BUIE
TJ assistant news editor

To drink or not to drink- that is the question. Unfortunately, for the vast numbers of students affected by our moralistic state legislature's valiant attempts to save young adults from the evils of alcohol, it is no longer a decision they get to make.

According to the new law, no one under the age of 19 is allowed to purchase alcohol of any kind. On Jan. 1, 1985, the drinking age will climb to 20 and, because of pressure from the federal government, a national drinking age of 21 may soon become a reality.

Not only will these restrictions prove to be ineffective in decreasing the number of DUI cases, but they are a cold slap in the face to all young adults. First of all, I don't know of any young person who would dare to stagger home to face worried parents. It's been my experience to see most young people pass out on the floor or the couch rather than drive home. Moreover, during the July 4th weekend in South Carolina, only one DUI accident was the fault of someone under 25 years of age.

In addition to being a waste of time, a higher drinking age is grossly unfair. Legislators are elected to represent the interests of constituents, and that means all constituents. An 18-year-old's vote carries the same value as a 40-year-old's, so why discriminate against young voters? And speaking of voting, if 18-year-olds are considered mature enough to shoulder the responsibilities of selecting public officials, marriage, and most importantly, defending our nation, shouldn't they be allowed the privileges that accompany those responsibilities?

Finally, if legislators wish to take action against drunk driving, they should begin with themselves by passing the recently rejected temperance bill, which would close bars serving legislators at the state capitol. In fact a representative was quoted as saying, "I think it's a joke that we would pass legislation that would prohibit adults from drinking." Does the legislature consider 18-year-olds as children? If so, they'd better realize that many 18-year-olds help pay their salaries through taxes and they are all eligible to vote.

Granted, the lives of innocent bystanders traveling our states' highways should be protected, but the answer lies in more stringent penalties for DUI, not in double standards and sweeping legislation that brands all young adults as irresponsible.

A welcome and a warning

By ROBERT McDONALD
TJ contributing editor

Welcome back to school, everybody. I'm sure each one of you is excited about being back and ready to indulge yourselves in your studies. Glad to be back, sure. Ready to start the homework and tests. . . . Well, we will surely have to think about that one for a while.

Seriously, I want to extend a special welcome to the new freshmen and transfer students. I was fortunate enough to have been able to meet most of you this summer at orientation, and I think you are a really great group. Without a doubt, you are a very "social" group. Anyone who was around during orientation saw (and heard!) that.

Right now most of you are probably finding your way around campus and making dozens of new friends. Winthrop is a friendly school, and I do not believe you will have much trouble finding plenty of people with whom you have lots in common and with whom you can be pals, this bringing me to the point of my first column of the semester.

Partying and going out with friends is fun and very easy to do, especially when you happen to be a freshman who has never been away from "Mom and Dad" for any length of time. Maybe this is one of the reasons that, on a national average, thirty-three percent of all college freshmen do not qualify to return for their sophomore year.

But, just when you thought there was no hope, the good ol' academic departments of Winthrop come to your rescue. Winthrop is a college which is fortunate enough to be staffed by a highly qualified and caring faculty. Many professors will gladly provide out-of-class help, and all that you, as a student, have to do is ask for it, preferably before there are only two weeks left in the semester.

Also, there are two major Academic Help centers on campus that are open at regular, set hours and are there for any Winthrop student to use. The Writing Center is located in Kinard Hall, and the Math Lab is housed in Tillman Administration Building. Both can be great assets to anyone who is having trouble, but, again, the initiative to ask for help must come from you, the student.

I suppose I will stop preaching now, but I hope what I have said here has made at least a few of you think about you want to accomplish while you are a student at Winthrop. Re-evaluate yourselves and the reasons why you came to college. Make new friends and get involved in college life, but if the load gets too heavy and you find yourself falling behind, remember that the help is there. Just do not be afraid to ask for it. Best wishes to everyone for a prosperous, successful year.

Dear Editor,

It seems ironic that Winthrop College is celebrating its tenth anniversary of co-education and yet the sign "The South Carolina College for Women," located between Oakland Avenue and Tillman Hall, still remains on the campus. This is publicly demeaning to the male students of Winthrop. Is the sign here for historical reasons or general negligence? The sign should either be removed and preserved or modified to fit the college's new image.

Senate to hold elections

By KAY ARROWOOD
TJ staff writer

As the fall semester at Winthrop College officially begins, once again comes the excitement and anticipation of student Senate elections. Here, students interested in being involved in the government action of Winthrop have an opportunity to run for the position of their choice and enter the world of student government.

Beginning August 31, students may pick up applications in the Student Government office in Dinkins Student Center. Applications must be returned by September 7. On Wednesday, September 19, students will elect those they wish to represent them in the Senate and freshmen will elect their class officers.

Jeff Mann, Dean of Students, states, "Although there are grade requirements for the offices of Student Government Association President and Vice-President, there are no GPR requirements for the Senators. As for the Freshman Class Officers, they must only be in 'good standing' with the college."

As Vice-President for the SGA, Tim Sturgis will be the Chairman of the Senate, which will meet every Wednesday at 7 p.m. Each Senator will represent roughly one hundred students in the Senate and must live in the residential district that he she is representing.

At the voting booths, students will pick a total of forty-eight Senators. Twenty-one of these forty-eight senators will be day students. The remaining twenty-seven will be students who live on campus. They will represent the resident halls as follows: Bancroft Annex-1; Bancroft Proper-2; Lee Wicker-3; Margaret Nance-2; Phelps-4; Richardson-4; Wofford-4; Thomson-3; Winthrop Lodge-2; Apartments-2.

Mann emphasizes the importance of the Senate saying, "The student Senate has a tremendous impact on the rules at Winthrop College. The College will go to the Senate to get a sense of how the student body feels about a certain regulation, for example, the parking fee, if the College wishes to change such a regulation. The Senator must be able to communicate the feelings of his/her constituents. Thus, student participation is very important."

Sparks fly in Richardson

By MARGE SHILL
TJ staff writer

A fire in Richardson Hall on Aug. 24 was handled properly by the Resident Life Staff, according to Jeff Mann, Dean of Students.

The fire was contained to a mattress in room 222. Tim Elmore, a resident of the room, was involved along with Lamar Holland and Richard Leslie. Leslie, not of Winthrop, and Holland were in Elmore's room when the fire occurred.

Mann said "Apparently the three guys had been drinking and either fell asleep or passed out."

Responding to the smell of smoke, the night clerk, Gene Jenkins, woke first floor resident assistant Wade Smith. The two then determined where the smoke was coming from.

The fire alarm was pulled and the Resident Director, John McConnell, was told of the location of the room. With the help of second floor resident assistant, Lane Lomady, McConnell tried to open windows to let the smoke out.

Once the three students were out of the room, Smith and McConnell dragged the smoldering mattress out of the building.

Most of the residents vacated the building, noted McConnell. "Some of the guys thought it was just a fire drill. But when they smelled smoke, they got out."

Having reacted so quickly, the Resident Life Staff of Richardson prevented what could have been a serious situation. According to Mann, the only damages were the mattress and hall carpet where the mattress was dragged.

Mann said, "A possible tragedy was avoided due to the quick thinking of the R.D., night clerk and R.A.'s."

Smith commented, "It was scary to have a fire this early in the year without much fire training. It was handled well though." McConnell said the situation never got out of hand which made a big difference.

Disciplinary action is still pending for the three involved in the fire incident, according to Mann.

Hobgood joins staff

(PIO)-Wade Hobgood has joined the Winthrop College faculty as chairperson and associate professor of the art department.

Hobgood will fill the position vacated by Ed Lewandowski who chaired the department since 1973 and retired as chairperson this past year. Lewandowski was recently named artist-in-residence at the college.

Originally from Wilson, N.C., Hobgood was the director of the art department design program and an assistant professor and graduate faculty member of art at Western Carolina University in Cullawhee, N.C., before accepting the position at Winthrop.

He received both his bachelor of fine arts degree in 1975 and his master of fine arts degree in 1977 in communication design from East Carolina University in Greenville, N.C. He has also participated in various programs including a computer graphics workshop at Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Boston in 1983.

In addition to his teaching positions, Hobgood was displayed much of his work in exhibitions and has done freelance commercial artwork. Among his many honors was the selection of his mural design for the "Keep America Beautiful" campaign by the U.S. Bicentennial Committee in 1976.

Archives grows

(PIO)--The Winthrop Archives' research collection on 19th century South Carolina history has been greatly strengthened by the efforts of two Winthrop College faculty members and one alumna.

The family of Dr. Robert Cooper, professor of economics, has deposited more than 300 family letters of W.W. Mills, a Civil War veteran who was a member of one of the last companies to leave Richmond, Va., when the city was evacuated by the Confederate forces. Many of the letters relate to Mills' experiences during the war.

Mrs. Helen Abell, assistant professor of special education, has deposited financial ledgers dating from the 1880's, which document the activities of the Abell family and provide information on the economic life of Chester County during the latter part of the 19th century.

Through the efforts of Gretchen Robinson, an alumna of the class of 1965, the Archives has acquired six Civil War journals of Emily Liles Harris. When her husband went off to serve in the Confederate Army, Mrs. Harris took care of the family's plantation, which was located near Spartanburg. She was

Chairman retires

(PIO)--Edmund Lewandowski, who retired as chair of the Winthrop College art department this past July, has been named the college's artist-in-residence.

Lewandowski's major responsibility will be to develop the college's art collection. He will be the first to hold this new position at Winthrop.

A member of the Winthrop faculty since 1973, Lewandowski was president of the Layton School of Art in Milwaukee, Wis., from 1954 to 1972. He also served as professor of painting and head of the department of art at Florida State University in Tallahassee, Fla. He earned a fine arts diploma at the Layton School in 1936.

Lewandowski's paintings are on display in several private, public, corporate and university museums in cities such as New York, Boston, Atlanta, Chicago, Washington, D.C., and Karakow, Poland.

responsible for 10 children and 10 slaves. The journals provide a wealth of information on life at the home front during the war. Ms. Robinson, a South Carolina film maker, used the diaries for the making of a film on Appalachian women.

The Archives is open to the general public for research from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday during the summer.

Gibson assists president

(PIO)--Darryl G. Gibson has joined the Winthrop College staff in the combined capacities of assistant to the president, affirmative action officer, and assistant professor of education.

Gibson, formerly a computer software program designer with the Sperry Corporation in Minneapolis, Minn., has extensive experience in counseling. Associated from 1976 to 1981 with the Mecklenburg County, N.C., Mental Health Department, he was administrative director of its Emergency Service Unit and clinical supervisor of client services.

From 1971 to 1976, Gibson was a guidance counselor and staff psychologist in North Carolina schools.

He received his bachelor of arts degree in sociology and his master of arts degree in clinical psychology from Appalachian State University in Boone, N.C., where he played varsity basketball and was active in student life.

At Winthrop he will assist the president in minority affairs, including faculty, staff, and student recruitment; will be responsible for establishing a college relations data base; and will participate in the field implementation of the college's new $4.5 million statewide computer-assisted remedial education program in the public schools.

Campus Notes...

Update on Summer Happenings!

Changes in Places

- Students should notice an upgraded appearance as:
 - all of Richardson and Phelps were painted - inside and out
 - all of Kinard Hall, which houses most of Winthrop's classrooms, was painted
 - 150 residence hall rooms were painted
 - new columns were installed in the front entrance of Thurmond
 - the fountain was repainted
 - the softball complex was completed
- Four new racquetball courts are now officially open for use at the Coliseum. Call the Intramural Office for reservations on one of the courts, open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Saturday and noon-10 p.m. on Sunday.
- The back entrance (and most used hallway) into Thomson Cafeteria will be renovated within the next two months.
- The Sumter Avenue entrance to the College recreational area (Shack and lake) has been closed (except for a walking path), with the main entrance to that area being through the Coliseum parking area.
- McLaurin Hall will be under major construction during the next year as it is being renovated to become a residence hall.
- Air conditioning will cool the residents of Bancroft beginning next summer as a $182,000 grant was awarded to Winthrop from the Department of Energy.
- The roads to and through the "Pits" are currently being prepared to later pave the entire area (final paving pending State government approval).
- The Alumni Office has moved to the third floor of Tillman Hall. The new International/Study Abroad offices will be housed in the Alumni House.
- Traffic near the Coliseum will be improved with the widening and re-routing of Lemay Street, connecting Eden Terrace and Cherry Road. There has been a new entrance lane added into the Coliseum.

Changes in People

- Former English chairperson, Dr. C. Michael Smith, has been named Vice President for Academics and Dean of the Faculty. His office is now in the executive suite of Tillman Hall, extension 2228. The interim chairperson in English is Dr. Gordon Ross.
- Dr. Glen Thomas, former provost, was named director of Winthrop's newly established International/Study Abroad Program. The new program was made possible through one of the special appropriations granted by the General Assembly in June. Within a year, students and faculty will have more opportunities to travel and study abroad.
- Dr. Suzanne Haelele has been named the new physician at Crawford Health Center. One of her areas of expertise is sports medicine, which will greatly benefit Winthrop's athletics, intramural, and wellness programs.
- Dr. Sarah Stallings has been promoted to Assistant Dean of the School of Consumer Science and Allied Professions, replacing Dr. Sam Greer who has joined the faculty in vocational education, which is his area of expertise.
- Dr. Ben Hawkins, formerly an assistant professor in business, has been named Assistant Dean of the School of Business Administration.
- Wade Hobgood has been named the new chairperson of the Department of Art, replacing Ed Lewandowski, who will become Winthrop's first artist-in-residence.

Dr. Glen Broach has been named the chairperson of the Political Science Department, replacing Dr. Melford Wilson, on assignment with the International Program this semester, and will return to full-time teaching next semester.

Tucker Johnson has been named Director of Career Development and will oversee the offices of Career Development, Continuing Education, and the co-op/intern programs.

Darryl Gibson has joined the staff as Affirmative Action Officer and Assistant to the President.

Sam Copeland has been named Winthrop's Sports Information Director, replacing Andy Solomon who is now Director of Public Affairs at Limestone College.

Reminders

- All students operating under the '84-'85 catalog have a cultural events attendance requirement. Additionally, freshmen are required to attend freshman convocations. See attendance monitors at each event to pick up attendance verification cards.
- South Carolina State law prohibits possession or consumption of alcoholic beverages under the age of 19.

Miscellaneous Answers to Potential Questions

- The new phone books will be distributed Oct. 1
- A calendar of events for 1984-85 will be published by Sept. 15
- Thanks to the State's funding, there was no tuition increase this year; however, you may have noticed an increase in some of your costs this semester. Increases, to cover inflationary costs, were $20 per semester for student activities, $30 per semester for the 21-meal per week plan, and $50 per semester for housing.

Smith named to new position

By JEFFREY WOODALL
TJ staff writer

Dr. Mike Smith, who has been with the Winthrop faculty since the fall of '75, has accepted the position of Vice-President of Academics and Dean of Faculty, on a one-year trial basis.

While at Winthrop he has served as Administrative Intern in the Dean of Arts and Sciences office for one year, two years as Director of English and one year on leave at UCLA where he worked on a special writing program.

"I also did technical and scientific editing, film reviews and even ran a small printing company," said Smith, who earned his doctorate from UNC in Greensboro. "I was an undergraduate at Chapel Hill with a double major in English and Political Science," added Smith.

Since Smith's acceptance of the position of Vice-President of Academics, he has helped pass a requirement that freshmen must attend a total of seven convocations. "We had a really strong feeling that the freshmen did not have any sense of community and we in the administration thought we could provide it," Smith remarked.

"This year we have revised the general education requirements and added the Cultural Events requirements. Anyone using this year's catalog (freshmen and transfers) must attend three cultural events per 15 hours credit. At this time there is a faculty committee working on approving what will be accepted. The Fine Arts Series, any Music Faculty recital, Winthrop theater productions, dance concerts and certain art exhibits have been approved," explained Smith.

Smith's new position is on a one-year trial basis. At the end of this period, a special advisory committee will decide whether to maintain the position or return to the position of Provost. Smith stated that he had not yet made the decision to "throw his hat in the ring" for next year.

"I am really enthusiastic about this year. Freshman SAT's and enrollments are up. We seem to be attracting better students," said Smith. "We hope it will be a great year."

New students get a fresh start

By BUNNY DUKE
TJ staff writer

Fall semester 1984 gave incoming Winthrop students a head start on finding out about college life, its activities, and faculty and staff. The program, called Fresh Start '84, was created to ease students' transitions from home life to college life.

"Fresh Start '84 was designed to supplement orientation," said Grabiell. "Objectives were to enable freshmen to make friends before school, familiarize them with the campus and campus resources, and to try to answer questions and relieve anxieties."

An average of 80-150 students participated in Fresh Start '84 which started August 23.

Group activities included a variety of events open to those interested.

The first event was C. Shaw Smith's Wacky Wizardy Magic Show, sponsored by Dinkins Student Union. The show, held at Winthrop's coliseum, was open to all Winthrop students. A drawing for a digital clock, a Random House Dictionary, and a 12" black and white television was held during the performance and the prizes were awarded to Fresh Start participants.

Friday, students were able to meet deans and faculty during the academic area meetings. Grabiell said students not only met the deans, but saw other students majoring in their field of study.

A scavenger hunt, coordinated by Michelle Sapp and the Fresh Start committee, was held Friday. Students were required to collect items or show some sign that they had been to designated areas on campus. The hunt covered all parts of campus, from Dacus Library to the chapel.

Next, Winthrop College Campus Ministries created a simulation game, "Will You Survive Your First Year?"

Friday evening was rounded off with a pool and volleyball party at Peabody Gymnasium, sponsored by Dinkins. "Approximately 200 students showed up for this event," said Sally Burnside, assistant director of Dinkins. Music was supplied by disc jockey Britt Helms, a student at Winthrop.

Saturday's events included a full day of student life discussions. Students could choose four sessions out of nine offered. Topics included were: Tips for College Survival (a student panel), Sally Burnside, moderator; Community Living at Its Best-Making the Most of Your Residence Life Experience, Katherine Thomas and Frankie Griffin, Assistant Directors of Housing, and Nancy Stewart, President of Residence Hall Association Don't Let Your Studies Interfere with Your Education, Jeff Mann, Dean of Students; To Achieve Your Best... Where It Counts, On Your Grade Report, Dr. Bill Wells, Director of Crawford Health Center and Dee Bazemore, student counselor.

Following a picnic held on the lawn of Dinkins, more discussions were held: Choosing your Major/Career Planning, Susan Bachman, Cooperative Education Coordinator; Being a Minority on a Predominantly White Campus, Mollie Bethea, Director of Financial Aid; Financial Aid and Employment Opportunities, Gerald F. Clinkscales, Financial Aid Counselor and Sylvia Kennedy, Student Development Specialist; Commuter Concerns, Rick Moore, S.G.A. President and Bill Bradley, Chairman of SGA Rules and Regulations Committee; and CLUES session, Dean Albert Lyles and CLUES Faculty.

Fresh Start '84 participants along with the entire Winthrop campus were invited to a progressive supper sponsored by campus ministries, the movie "Terms of Endearment," sponsored by Dinkins, and, on Wednesday, Convocation, held at Byrnes Auditorium.

The program ended Thursday with the Student Activities Fair, which was held in front of Byrnes, coordinated by Cynthia Claiborne and the Fresh Start committee.

Claiborne, a junior from Summerville, S.C., majoring in English, said that organizations set up booths to let students know about their organizations.

Grabiell said, "I'm pleased with the program. Next year more participation will be the main objective. The ones that came were real happy they did."

College board reports minimal cost increase

NEW YORK, NY (CPS)—The total cost of attending college this school year will increase only six percent over last year, a new report by the College Board concludes.

Over the last few years, says College Board President George Hanford, college costs have increased 10 to 11 percent a year as colleges boosted tuition to keep pace with high interest rates and inflation.

The comparatively small increase in this year's college costs marks what many experts hope is an end to the double-digit cost increases of the last several years.

At public schools, moreover, the increase amounts to only a five percent rise over last year, making the total cost $4881 for four-year resident students, and $3998 for students at two-year schools.

Private school students aren't faring quite as well. Costs of attending private colleges are up seven percent over last year, for a total cost of $9022 at four-year schools and $7064 at two-year institutions, the study of over 3000 schools nationwide reveals.

Total college costs in the survey include tuition and fees, books and supplies, room and board, personal expenses, and transportation.

While total costs will rise only six percent this year, however, the study also shows that tuition and fees will increase eight to nine percent at both public and private schools.

Students at four-year public schools, for example, will pay average tuition and fees of $1126, while their counterparts at private colleges will pay an average of $5016.

The Massachusetts Institute of Technology will be the most expensive school to attend this year, the survey shows, where total costs will average $16,130.

Bennington College in Vermont comes in second for a total cost of $16,040, followed by Harvard at $15,750, Princeton at $15,625, and Barnard at $15,558.

Yale, Brandeis, Tufts, Brown, and Sarah Lawrence College, in that order, round out the list of the ten most expensive schools to attend.

But the College Board figures may be a bit deceiving, points out Meredith Ludwig with the American Association of State Colleges and Universities (AASCU), which is conducting a similar survey for release later this fall.

"Many schools are still involved in the legislative process (for state funding) and tuition and fees haven't been set yet," she points out.

"We expect (this year's cost increase) to be a little less than last year's," she speculates, probably around "six-to-eight percent" when all the figures are in.

The cost increases of the last few years came because colleges had put off things like building maintenance and salary increases during the seventies in an effort to hold down tuition and fees, says Kathleen Brouder, associate director of College Board's Scholarship Services.

This year's curtailment of cost increases, she adds, may mean colleges have finally caught up with such deferred expenses.

Now that inflation has subsided and interest rates are down, agrees AASCU's Ludwig, college costs could level off for a few years.

Bud Ludwig and College

Board officials are quick to note they really aren't sure why costs increased so little this year.

"Everybody's been saying it's because colleges have finally caught up with expenses and because the economy is better," she says. "But we're really just using that reason because there aren't any other explanations."

Get fired up

By ROBERT JOLLY

Yes, here we are for about four months, but are we ready? I'm not sure if I am; however, I am sure that the Athletic Department is more than ready for a successful semester. Winthrop has fashioned a tradition of winning teams. This year is no exception. However, this semester there will be three new sports to have winning schedules.

One of my favorite characteristics of Winthrop is the school's never-ending search for ways to grow and improve. Last year Winthrop was overcome with Greek growth. This year athletics will be the key to Winthrop growth.

The ultimate goal has been set; by September of 1986 Winthrop will be a member of Division I of the N.C.A.A. To do this many changes will be made in the Athletic Department as well as the entire school. For starters, wrestling, men's and women's golf, and cross-country were added to the roster.

The excitement can be felt in the air as one walks at the coliseum. New positions and responsibilities have been assigned to everyone including a new SID crew.

In my view the athletic department has done its part. Now the ball is in our, the students, court. "Apathy" is not a word I hope to use this semester. Past sports editors have thrived on this term, "Apathy". This year we, the students, have a big selection of events to attend regularly, with spirit!

For example, if I do not like soccer, I can spend more time at the cross-country matches. Everyone cannot support every team; however, there are enough students to make a boisterous showing at all home games.

Before Winthrop can be given a desperately needed NCAA bid, the school, as well as the athletic department, must prove themselves worthy of a bid. This means NCAA officials will be at our home games watching the enthusiasm of crowds as well as the team members.

The student body must prove that they are united in spirit, and ready for the new challenges of the much more spirited NCAA. So get off your backs (sorry I can't say "butt" in the paper), and find out when the next athletic event is, head out to the coliseum, and GET FIRED up!

Anyone who wishes to run intercollegiate cross country for Winthrop's new men's and women's teams, please contact Dr. Charles J. Bowers at either Peabody Gym (phone 323-2123) or the coliseum (phone 329-2140). The first meet will be Sept. 8, at Campbell University. Previous experience in distance running is necessary. Greatness is not required!

Renovation makes way for NCAA

By LAURIE ANN DEDES
TJ sports writer

Changes are taking place in every department at Winthrop and athletics is no exception. The change over from NAIA to NCAA has added several new sports to the athletic curriculum. According to the new Sports Information Director, Sam Copeland, the new sports are men's and women's cross country, wrestling, and men's and women's golf. These were added to meet the NCAA requirements.

Copeland said, "Joining the NCAA will get Winthrop recognized nationally. Once people see the athletics they will also recognize the high quality of academic standards."

Not only have new sports been added but positions in the athletic department have also shifted.

Nield Gordon announced that former business and facilities manager Doug Echols will be Associate Athletic Director and Business Manager. He will assume the responsibilities of Athletic Director in Gordon's absence. This position will give Gordon more time to concentrate on the basketball team.

Horace Turbeville, baseball coach, Eagle Club Director and assistant Athletic Director will also supervise men's and women's golf. In addition, he will supervise soccer, wrestling and both cross country teams.

"Horace has had many years of experience in athletics and will do an excellent job in assuming the responsibilities of these sports as we move towards NCAA Division I," said Gordon.

Women's basketball coach and assistant Athletic Director Karen Brown will be in charge of men's and women's tennis, volleyball, and women's basketball.

According to Gordon, Brown has done an outstanding job the past three years. Gordon said, "Having these women's sports under her direction will enhance the commitment that Winthrop College has made to women's faculty and Faculty Chairman of Athletics. Breakfield as Faculty Chairman is vitally important as Winthrop enters the NCAA Division I status."

Now that Winthrop is going NCAA, the competition will be a lot tougher.

According to Sports Information Director Sam Copeland, all of the teams will be on a tighter schedule. Copeland is the former sports director for WBTW TV and WJMX radio in Florence. Copeland's wife is former Winthrop women's basketball I'm excited about this job and looking forward to growing with Winthrop in the NCAA," said Copeland.

In order to go NCAA, the development of the men's basketball team is important. The rules and regulations are different from all other sports. They must schedule 25 of 28 games against other Division I teams.

In 1977, when Gordon signed on as head basketball coach at Winthrop, only one secretary and trainer were full-time with the Athletic Department. Today there are over 25 full- and part-time employees. In the 1983-84 academic year, the Athletic Department in conjunction with the Eagle Club earned $80,000. All of the men's and women's teams posted winning records.

New SID named

By ROBERT JOLLY
TJ sports editor

Since mid-May the Athletic Department has been recuperating from the loss of their friend and associate, Sports Information Director, Andy Soloman. Many people were skeptical of anyone trying to replace Andy's skills and efficiency. However, just as the sun goes down, it must rise again. Thus, the Winthrop athletic department has risen to the occasion once again by hiring Samuel Frank Copeland, Winthrop's new S.I.D.

It was a long hard search, with over fifty applicants being considered for the S.I.D. position. Finally, just as summer was nearing its end, the selection was narrowed down to the best candidate, Sam Copeland.

Copeland has a long line of experience with sports and reporting. Copeland received a Bachelor of Science degree in Civil Engineering from Clemson University. While at Clemson, Copeland served as Sports Editor for the school's paper.

Upon graduation in 1969, Copeland then served two years in the army as a Captain in the Corps of Engineers. While in the army, Copeland saw some active duty in Vietnam.

After Copeland left the army he spent six years here in South Carolina coaching high school football, basketball, and baseball. This led to Copeland's most recent employment as Sports Director for WBTW channel 13 in Florence for the past six and a half years.

As luck has it, Copeland has always wanted to get into the Sports Information field. "I've always wanted to get into the S.I.D. field. Good people, good facilities, good school, and good timing were all major factors in my choosing Winthrop to pursue my career. I had been offered several jobs at Clemson in the past, but I had to turn them down because of the money in television. My wife, Ann, used to coach here in Rock Hill so she liked it," said Copeland.

Most S.I.D.'s have their own way of directing things. However, because of Andy Soloman's leadership, the athletic department already knew what they wanted. They found the leadership and more in Copeland. "I don't have any immediate changes. Andy did a good job; we are going to continue the quality and make a few improvements."

Winthrop offers cross country to men, women students

By LAURIE ANN DEDES
TJ sports writer

Dr. Charles Bowers, three-year Winthrop College assistant physical education professor, will coach the teams.

Bowers is a graduate of the University of Georgia where he was on the cross country and track teams. He was captain of the team his senior year.

Bowers earned his Masters at the University of Georgia where he was assistant track coach. Later he earned his Doctorate at the University of Mississippi.

Bowers has been at Winthrop for the past three years. Bowers stressed that Winthrop needs more athletics. He also said that he enjoys working with the cross country teams. "The men and women practice together. The men run 60 to 70 miles a week, and the women run 40 to 50 miles."

"Cross country is a team sport," he continued. "You usually have seven people running in a meet and five of the best times are used. So, if two of the runners fall back or get hurt there are still five to pick up the slack."

Bowers also said, "We have ten on the men's team. They are extremely dedicated and work well together. They are polite, hard-working young men."

The team members are: Kevin Murphy and Jim Koterba of Rock Hill; Richard Golden of Tifton, Georgia; Grant Yawn of Lawrenceville, Georgia; Chris Rolph of Sydney, Australia; Edward Moore of Chester, S.C.; Brian Payne of Charlotte, N.C.; Hill Riddle of New Orleans, Louisiana, and Craig Wilkenson of Anderson, S.C. A walk-on trying out is John Himes.

"We only have four on the women's team. I'd like to have ten. We need five for a meet. Any woman interested should contact me as soon as possible. Cross country is a fall sport and we need women right now."

Anyone interested in running on the women's team should contact Dr. Bowers at 323-2123.

The women on the team are: Denise Holiday of Matthews, N.C.; Janie Jackson, Sandy Stafford, and Kristen Kennedy of Columbia, S.C.

"I'm looking forward to a good season with both teams," said Dr. Bowers.

Winthrop swings into golf season

By TODD HUTCHISON
TJ staff writer

The 1984-85 school year marks the beginning of the golf program at Winthrop. Coach Steve Moore will be guiding both the men's and women's teams in the team's first year of competition.

Coach Moore was named coach after his involvement in the intramural program here at Winthrop. He played in college at Lander and has helped coordinate and participated in many local tournaments. He feels this will help him in his job. When asked about the program he said, "Hopefully in the next year we will be a highly competitive team."

The men, who take to the links in the fall have three tournaments scheduled, with the women scheduled for spring action. The first tournament will be at Methodist College in Fayetteville, N.C., on Sept. 16-18, with 18 teams signed for action. The next tournament will be at Ferrum College in Hillsdale, Virginia, on October 6-8, with 18 teams also. The season ends in early November with the South Carolina Intercollegiate Tournament. The tournament, to be played in Hampton, S.C., will include Clemson, Carolina, and many other state rivals.

Coach Moore said, "I would like to build the team through a system of strong recruiting." With this in mind, the team starts its first season with a freshman-dominated roster complemented by a few junior college players. The team members include: Bryant Anderson from Dunwoody, Georgia; Steve Augustein from Columbus, Ohio; Maurey Clodfelter from Mooresville, N.C.; Burt Davis from Legrange, Georgia; Joey Foster from Easley, S.C.; Joey Frederick from Fort Mill, S.C.; Michael Fusco from Columbia, S.C.; Ken Kavanaugh from Atlanta, Georgia; Scott Malcolm from Indian Land, S.C.; George McKinney from Georgia; and Casey Smith from Abbeville, S.C.

provements. We will have one graduate assistant and two student assistants to help out. I feel like we need more local exposure, that is in the five-county area. We will also have more television exposure. I would also like to get Winthrop off the sports page some, and into the main stream of news. We have athletes who are good students for example. I would like to see other side lights reported on," said Copeland.

Because of Winthrop's move toward an N.C.A.A. bid, it was important for the athletic department to hire someone who would lead an advancement toward an N.C.A.A. division 1 placement. "I think an N.C.A.A. invitation will be excellent for the school and the community. I know our staff is ready, and I'm sure the teams will be able to compete," said Copeland. He also added, "I feel I can help in the transition because I am a strong writer and organizer. I also know the media well. Much hard work, enthusiasm and determination are what sparks me to lead Winthrop."

As always, the future of an athletic department depends on the S.I.D.'s outlook on the future. "We have room for growth. We will need more help as the sports grow. We will have to grow in student and full time help as the teams and student populations grow. Winthrop's future is brighter now than ever," said Copeland.

Though Copeland has only been in Rock Hill for a few weeks he has already formed a favorable opinion. "I like Rock Hill, there are many nice people, and it is a very pretty town. The college atmosphere is great. I have two small children and this would be a great place to bring them up. I definitely plan to set up a permanent residence here in Rock Hill," said Copeland.

Linda Lader to become a mother

By JODY BROWN
TJ staff writer

Linda LeSourd Lader, 35, wife of Winthrop College President Philip Lader, is expecting their first child in the winter.

"My doctors cannot decide whether it's the last of January or the first of February," she laughs, "but babies come when they decide to anyway."

Mrs. Lader says that President Lader plans to participate in the birth. "He has always wanted children and he's very excited. He constantly jokes that he will be my coach." She states that they have discussed names but she won't tell anyone what they are. "The name 'Winthrop' Lader has been suggested and has some appeal but I don't know," she laughs.

Mrs. Lader is busy at work in the light, airy kitchen of the President's Home on campus, putting away groceries just as any housewife does. However, the phone rings and she easily discusses plans for the eight house guests and dinner for 35 the Laders hosted following the convocation Wednesday. Guests included former S.C. governor John West and Senator Ernest F. Hollings and their wives.

The convocation which recreated the Blue Line and commemorated the tenth anniversary of Winthrop's move to coeducation was held in Byrnes Auditorium Aug. 28.

Mrs. Lader followed a LeSourd family tradition by attending Ohio Wesleyan University where she graduated in 1971 with a degree in religion and psychology. Her father, Leonard LeSourd, is the former editor of Guidepost magazine and currently the president of Chosen Books, a publishing company.

She is the step-daughter of the late Catherine Marshall, who is the widow of renowned minister Peter Marshall and author of several books including Christy and A Man Called Peter.

Mrs. Lader is exceptionally adept at organizing. She gracefully manages speaking engagements and luncheons, plans and hosts dinners and student gatherings and travels extensively throughout the state visiting alumnae and prospective Winthrop students. After graduating from college she lived in Washington, D.C., and worked with the Fellowship Foundation which organizes the National Prayer Breakfast ministries. She assisted with student conferences, and served as a resource speaker and a liaison to numerous religious groups nationwide.

She also organized women's retreats, one of which brought the Laders together. "I organized a retreat on Hilton Head Island where Phil was president of Sea Pines Company (a land development company)," she said. "He took out a friend of mine and she introduced us."

"He tells me that as soon as he met me, he knew that I was the girl he wanted to marry although I don't think it happens that quickly. But as soon as I found out that he and my friend had no serious relationship, things moved along quickly."

Mrs. Lader states that she continued to live in Washington, D.C., and he on Hilton Head Island during their year-long courtship in which they saw one another mostly on weekends. They were married in September of 1980. She joined him in South Carolina and served as a marketing consultant for the Sea Pines Company from 1981 to 1983.

President and Mrs. Lader came to Winthrop College in 1983 at ages 37 and 33, respectively, one of the nation's youngest couples to hold the position. According to Mrs. Lader, the job requires a lot of energy and motivation.

"Phil has always been enormously energetic. His mother likes to tell people that she prayed for twins and instead was given two in one body. Even on our summer vacation, hiking in the Swiss Alps, he kept me constantly going."

"As for me, my father visited when we moved into this house. We moved in Tuesday and had open house for the faculty Friday. He commented that I reminded him of his mother."

My grandmother was always active and we were very close. So I guess I may have inherited some of her energy. I've never been one to be bored."

After the baby arrives, Mrs. Lader states that she will do less traveling. "I am very interested to see how it will affect Phil. I'm certainly not worried- just curious to see how his lifestyle will change."

As for her long-term goals, Mrs. Lader ponders a moment as she reclines in the blue den decorated in her husband's favorite color. She graciously takes her guests through the President's Home which was refurbished in 1983 after the Laders arrived.

"We want to have a terrific marriage and we look forward to raising one or more children. We always want to be involved with people."

We've both considered writing. Phil will be teaching a course in the spring. "Great lives," which will focus on famous people and their biographies. He enjoys history, law and politics. As for me, if I should write, I'm still undecided as to my topic."

She says that, despite rumors to the contrary, President Lader has no concrete political plans. "Our immediate goal is to devote all of our energies to Winthrop College."

Although Mrs. Lader plans to be very active with her husband and children, she says that she will continue to pursue her diverse interests. "My top priority will always be my family. However, I want to be an articulate, informed wife and mother. I enjoy Bible studies and speaking engagements."

"It is a great challenge we all have in our lives to maintain the balance between the personal and public life, between our families and others."

Jeff Mann, Dean of Students, said Fresh Start '84 was "a nicely conceived, beautifully executed program for new students." Mann commented that even though not many students participated, "those who did, without question, benefited."

Fresh Start '84 was not only a learning experience, but was designed for fun.

Kim Atkins, a freshman from Wytheville, Va., participated in some of the Fresh Start '84 activities. She said that Fresh Start is "a good idea. It helped me meet people. I think more people should have participated."

"The program has great potential," said Tom Webb, Dinkins Student Center Director. "It was an extra effort to provide insights for people taking on brand new lifestyles and to make their transitions less of an impact."

Grabel said that, if continued next year, the program would probably be called Fresh Start '85.
